

ABSTRACT

A projection screen is disclosed that includes a projection layer formed of a flexible sheet of fabric and means for supporting the projection layer in tension during use. At least part of the tensioned projection layer has a front projection surface adapted to have an image projected thereon and a corresponding rear surface that is overlaid with a backing layer that absorbs light transmitted through the projection surface of the projection layer.